TAFT STUMPS NEBRASKA FOR PRIMARY VOTES

...g Against 6 Other GOP Candidates; Vote Next Week.

By The United Press

...FF, Neb., April 5— ... A. Taft, (R-Ohio), ... ng Nebraska today ... f to voters who will ...te's choice for the ... presidennal nomina- ...eek

...mary will be a critical ... Sen. Taft. He is running ... other major Republ- ...ponents in the only ... al primary he has en- ...de his own state. The ... vote comes one week ... morrow's Wisconsin pri- ..., in which he is not en- ...ed

There was a folksy tone to the ...gn arrangements made by Sen. Taft's Nebraska backers. While he has beaten the by-ways ...n senatorial contests, the somewhat aloof Taft has followed a more formal course in his campaign for the presidential nomination.

To Make 12 Speeches

...s Nebraska schedule calls for ... to make 12 speeches, most of ...em extemporaneous, in as many ...ties and towns within three ...ays. He is making a 900-mile ... in an automobile caravan, while Mrs. Taft, a skilful campaigner herself, makes a parallel ... starting at Alliance, across ...e northern part of the state.

...n Taft drove here from Cheyenne, Wyo., last night after a ...ght from St. Louis. He was greeted by western Nebraska supporters who were clearly optimistic about his chances, particularly in this part of the state.

The Ohioan's forces generally have been hopeful, although not over-confident, about his Nebraska prospects. They have regarded ... Thomas E. Dewey as the ...st competitor. But some of Sen. Taft's backers in Nebraska ...ought former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota might provide equally strong competition.

Other Candidates

Besides those three candidates, Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan House Speaker Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, Gov. Earl Warren of California and Gen. Douglas MacArthur have been entered in the Nebraska ...esidential ...es

Some of Sen. Taft's supporters began wondering recently if Gen. MacArthur might be a serious ...ent, but the senator's friends in Nebraska discounted the general's chances for a strong showing in this state.

The result of the Nebraska presidential primary is not binding on the state's 15 national convention delegates. However, they are expected to be guided by it at least during the early balloting period.

Reynolds Skips from China After Dispute with Officials

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, April 5—Millionaire Milton Reynolds, acting quickly to evade any attempt to return him to China, took off at 8.47 p m., today (6 47 a. m, Marion time) for the United States.

(The Chinese government asked General MacArthur's headquarters to send the Reynolds party back to Shanghai because it had left China without authorization. The request presumably was made after Reynolds had received U. S. Army clearance to leave Tokyo.)

Reynolds flew out of China hurriedly—dramatically by his account—in the midst of a row over his cancelled mountain peak exploration mission.

"I'll be so happy to get back to the United States," the wealthy Chicagoan declared here, "that I'll never leave there again."

His flight plan called for a stop at Midway Island to refuel his specially equipped C-87. He expected to reach Hickam field, Honolulu, at 10 p m, tomorrow (3 a. m., Wednesday, E.S.T.) His wife and two children will be waiting for him there.

The Chinese government's request to detain the Reynolds party was taken in reply to a radiogram from Far East Air Forces in Tokyo asking if Chinese authorities wanted the Americans.

(A Chinese government spokesman said possible charges included violation of flight regulations and failure to obtain exit visas and customs and police clearance.)

General MacArthur's office earlier had announced clearance for Reynolds' homeward flight.

In Tiff With Chinese

The Chicago millionaire got into a tiff with Chinese officials and scientists for cancelling his search for a mountain higher than Everest—then going off on a secret trip. An expedition member said it may have taken him over western China's lofty Amne Machin range. The Chinese ordered him to remain in Shanghai pending an inquiry. Instead, Reynolds flew out suddenly yesterday.

It was pointed out Reynolds presumably broke only Chinese domestic laws in his unauthorized departure.

Reynolds told newsmen on his arrival here he skipped out of China to escape a financial shakedown.

Krupp, Munitions Heads, Acquitted

By The Associated Press

NURENBERG, Germany, April 5—Alfred Krupp Von Bohlen und Halbach and 11 other directors of the Krupp munitions combine were acquitted by a U. S court today on two of four war crimes charges.

The tribunal cleared all 12 of the charges they committed crimes against peace and that they participated in a conspiracy against peace.

They still face two charges—plunder and spoliation of conquered nations, and deportation, exploitation and abuse of slave labor.

The group pleaded innocent last Nov. 17.

ERP DIRECTOR TO BE NAMED WITHIN 2 DAYS

Truman Acts To Speed Start of "Halt Reds" Relief to Europe.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 5—President Truman may speed the start of the European recovery program by naming its director within the next 48 hours.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters today Mr Truman hopes to be able to announce the appointment very soon.

Ross said: "I think it will not be today. Possibly, but not certainly, it will be by tomorrow."

He added Mr. Truman is not ready to name the roving ambassador called for by the $6,098,000,000 program aimed at stopping communist expansion.

NAM Offers Help

Ross said several officials of the National Association of Manufacturers will offer their help in getting ERP under way They had a White House date to see Mr. Truman.

One possibility of delay was seen, however, in reports that President Truman is faced with sharp differences among his advisers as to which government agency should be placed in temporary control.

The choice was reported to lie among the State Department, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Export-Import Bank.

Five countries are due to receive the first help under the new $6,098,000,000 foreign aid program. They are Italy, France, Austria, the Netherlands and Greece.

Food Urgent

Shipments of food, fuel and possibly some industrial supplies are considered of the utmost urgency in the case of Italy because of the need to bolster anti-Communist forces there ahead of the April 18 elections.

But even as the multi-billion dollar economic program was being thrown into gear, the State Department was intensifying its study of possible military support for the developing western European union.

The problem of furnishing guns and bullets—and possibly working out a mutual defense alliance with the western bloc—may be discussed with Belgian Premier Paul-Henri-Spaak here this week.

Lewis Facing New Showdown As Striking Miners Defy Court

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 5—John L. Lewis headed toward a new showdown with the government today as striking soft coal miners indicated defiance of a court order to end their 22-day-old pension walkout.

Lewis said the union were ordered to call off the strike immediately.

If the United Mine Workers president and his miners make no effort in the next few days either to comply with the order or to ask the court to dissolve it they face a contempt charge paralleling the dramatic court setback of less than 18 months ago.

Federal attorneys thought Lewis would act swiftly to try to dissolve the temporary restraining order issued against him and the coal operators Saturday night.

Lewis' own attorneys worked all day Sunday and into last night, presumably preparing their case

Judge Issues Order

The order, issued by Federal Judge Matthew F. McGuire in his Connecticut avenue apartment, directed Lewis and the miners to call off the strike at once

It also ordered the soft coal operators and Lewis to bargain out their differences over miners' pensions, the dispute which led to the March 15 shutdown.

To a man, the principal operators refused to comment before studying the order today. They made no sudden move to comply but reminded reporters that they had offered to talk about contract grievances "after the miners return to work."

Judge Fixes Penalty

The penalty for ignoring a court order is fixed by the judge.

Federal attorneys say there are no guideposts beyond "reasonableness" of the fine or jail term

The judge who has the first opportunity to hear any pleas by Lewis or to act on his non-compliance is Justice T. Alan Goldsborough. It was he who imposed the fines of $3,500,000 on the union and $10,000 on Lewis for contempt under similar circumstances in the strike of November-December 1946. The union's fine was cut to $700,000 by the supreme court.

Coal Pits Deserted Despite Court Order

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, April 5—Soft coal pits in West Virginia and Pennsylvania remained virtually deserted today as the pensions walkout of the United Mine Workers began its fourth week, despite government injunction.

Among the silent mines were those of steel companies—including U. S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin—which had kept blast furnace operations going at full capacity here on the chance the coal stoppage might last only a few weeks

An early survey today yielded no reports of any major UMW bituminous mines operating in such big producing states as Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Kentucky. The union claims 400,000 members across the nation.

Coke Pits Close

Pits of the H. C. Frick Coke Co., U. S. Steel subsidiary in the Uniontown, Pa., coke area, were among those unworked.

DRAFT MAY GO OVER EASILY, UMT HARD

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 5—Easy sledding in congress for a "halt Russia" draft revival was forecast today by Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Ball (R-Minn.).

But both men indicated they expect rough going for the administration's companion preparedness measure — Universal Military Training.

Bridges is a member of the senate armed services committee which tomorrow will start writing legislation covering both UMT and limited selective service.

Bridges told a reporter he plans to vote for both. And he predicted a majority of the committee will, too.

Chairman Gurney (R-SD), who also favors both UMT and a return of the draft, said over the weekend he hopes to finish the bill-writing job by Friday. He added speed is necessary because Russia is "making moves fast."

GOP LINES UP IN WISCONSIN

Primary Choice Tuesday Lies Between MacArthur, Stassen, Dewey Delegates.

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, April 5—Wisconsin voters, fed an unvarying get-tough-with-Russia diet, call the turn tomorrow on three Republican presidential candidates.

Their choice lies between Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York in a primary to pick 27 delegates to the GOP national convention.

But no matter which candidate comes out on top, he will be pledged by campaign speeches—or in MacArthur's case by friends' statements—to smack down Communism in this country and deal firmly with Moscow.

Indications are that this type of campaign will be carried over into Nebraska where the three are entered in the April 15 popularity primary.

Taft Already On Ground

Dewey and Stassen set out this week to build some political fences there. Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio another presidential hopeful already is on the ground. Taft accused the Democrats of coddling Communists in a weekend speech in Missouri.

Wisconsin had a calm period after the storm of personal campaigning by Dewey and Stassen. Stassen breaks it today with two speeches in the southwestern part of the state and a last minute radio plea tonight.

In New York, Herbert Brownell, Dewey's campaign manager, said Dewey is sure of support of well over one half of 305 Republican convention delegates that will have been chosen by Tuesday night He included 90 district delegates to be picked in New York that day.

Dewey already has six from New Hampshire where Stassen got two.

Brownell listed Wisconsin and Iowa as among those likely to contribute Dewey delegates.

More Dewey Delegates

Brownell mentioned Florida as a Dewey contributor. Other states mentioned by Brownell as being likely to give Dewey delegates included Virginia, Oklahoma, Kansas, Michigan, Arizona, North Carolina, Louisiana and Minnesota.

Michigan Republicans made it plain in a weekend convention they will give Senator Arthur Vandenberg their solid support for whatever office he may seek. Vandenberg has said he is not and does not expect to become a presidential candidate

In St Charles, Mo, Vandenberg was nominated for president and Stassen for vice president at a girls' college mock convention. Taft, a speaker there, did not share in results.

In Oklahoma, a count showed Dewey will have at least eight of the state's 20 delegates. Arizona named an uninstructed group and kept colorful Clarence Budington Kelland as national committeeman.

RAIL UNIONS TO VOTE ON BOARD'S PROPOSAL

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., April 5 — General chairmen of three strike-threatening railroad unions were expected to decide today or tomorrow whether to accept an emergency board's recommendations in their dispute.

The presidential board proposed a 15½-cent hourly pay boost and certain rule changes The carriers already have announced their willingness to go along with the findings.

Alvanley Johnston, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said the union's position would be decided by some 400 general chairmen today or tomorrow.

Sessions by the officials representing the engineers, firemen and enginemen and switchmen were to open today.

Should the unions turn down the report, the government was expected to urge further negotiation. A strike could not start until the April 26 expiration of a 30-day cooling-off period.

Union officials already have expressed themselves as disappointed by the recommendations.

SOVIET CRAFT KNOCKS WING FROM AIRLINER

Two Passengers Reported To Be Americans; Blockade Talks Proposed.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, April 5—A British transport plant crashed in flames today after colliding with a Russian fighter craft, British authorities announced. The British plane, a Viking, carried 10 passengers and four crewmen.

RAF officers said all 14 were killed. Two of the passengers were understood to be Americans.

The Russian fighter also crashed.

The transport, belonging to the British European Airways, crashed as it was about to make a landing after a flight from London.

RAF officials said the planes fell when their wings hit.

Falls Near Prison

Both dropped near the Spandau International prison, which holds the Nuernberg war crimes trial defendants who drew penitentiary terms.

Spandau is on the edge of Berlin.

There have been frequent rumors in Berlin that Soviet fighters were diving on American and British planes, but there was no immediate indication whether this was true today.

In London, the airline said the crash occurred after the Russian fighter flew across the transport's nose.

German police reported the fighter plane fell into the Heerstrasse, a main street in the British sector of Berlin, and the Russian pilot was killed.

The fighter clipped one wing off the British Viking.

Collide Near Border

Apparently the collision took place almost exactly over the borderline of the British sector of Berlin and the Soviet zone of Germany. A German who saw the planes fell said the Russian craft did not burst into flames, but came down with terrific force. He said the crash took place almost exactly at 2:05 p. m (8:05 a m, eastern standard time), which was the time the passenger plane was due to arrive at the RAF's Gatow airfield.

This incident came only a few hours after an apparent easing in the east-west tension that has gripped Berlin several days. British authorities today accepted a Soviet offer to talk over the deadlock on Russian restrictions on railroad traffic, and suggested a full four-power meeting.

The United States previously had accepted the Russian proposal for discussion of these restrictions

The controls, on traffic through the Soviet occupation zone, had forced suspension of allied military rail traffic between Berlin and the western occupation zones.

The Russians wanted to board and inspect such trains. The western powers refused to let them.

Regularly scheduled passenger trains still were suspended today, but allied freight trains were getting through to Berlin.

In his answer to the Russians, Maj. Gen. N. C. D. Brownjohn, British deputy military governor, accepted their invitation for the British.

U. S. Gets Offer

Then he remarked he understood the U. S. and French had received similar offers to discuss the regulations.

"I would suggest, therefore," Brownjohn said, "that it would save time if representatives of all four commanders discuss the question together."

If the Russians should agree to this it would result in the first four-power meeting on the German control level since the Russians walked out on the allied control council March 20.

The Americans brought another freight train through the Russian zone to supply their forces in Berlin today.

The 52-car military freight train from the west carried food, oil and other supplies. It passed through Soviet territory on presentation of cargo manifest documents and without on-train inspection—such as the Russians had demanded and the western powers refused.

Second Shipment

This was the second U. S. rail freight shipment brought through since the Russians imposed restrictions Wednesday midnight on the line between Berlin and the western occupation zones. It came through after cancellation of an American emergency air supply system.

The British also brought three maintenance trains through over the weekend. They said their rail

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

FOR the first time I saw that Georges' resolution was beginning to crumble at the edges. For a fraction of a second he stared at Dicky, and I knew he was more impressed by the laughing admission that a regiment of men couldn't control Mary if she wished to talk to the royal playboy than by Dicky's statement that she had no desire whatever to see Georges.

Then as Dicky's last question filtered through his brain cells, he half sprang to his feet, again, then sat down, patiently remembering Dicky's former command, but strained his body forward in fierce protest.

"I have not told anyone save you and your wife about this," he shrilled.

"Because you haven't had the chance," Dicky retorted mercilessly. "Don't forget, you were willing to have Mr. 'K.' listen in on this conversation."

"I—I—thought he had to, because he was FBI," Georges stammered, but I was glad to see that his cheeks held a brick red flush, and knew that his inner consciousness was reminding him that he had been willing for Mr. "K." to hear the outpouring of his soul.

"That may be the answer," Dicky said airily, but with such patent disbelief in his voice that Georges' ugly red color heightened.

"Never mind all these preliminaries," my husband said suddenly, and I guessed that he shared my fear of a sudden apoplectic stroke for the fugitive king if he baited him any longer.

"I'm going to get down to cases now," Dicky went on. "I'll talk very briefly, and to the point, but I don't want you to open your mouth until I get through. Then, if you want to call me a liar, or any other little name that suits your fancy, go ahead. I won't lift a finger to you, unless, of course, you try to punch me on the nose, and I won't hold that against you.

"Here is the state of affairs," he said, checking his points with the forefinger of one hand against the palm of the other.

"First, Mrs. Noel Veritzen is whole-heartedly in love with her husband. I agree with you, that if I were a woman, he wouldn't be the answer to my prayer for a helpmate, but he evidently is for her.

"Secondly, although she has flirted with you, with a leading man who turned out to be the world's worst louse—he's dead now, thank all the gods—and with others, divers and sundry Mary has coquetted from her cradle, and will to her grave—her heart never has lost a beat for any of you, she has been 'true to Poll.'

"Thirdly," Dicky patently was warming up to his subject now, but the brick red flush had faded from Georges' cheeks. They were almost ashen now, and his lips were compressed as tightly as if he had turned a key on them. "Thirdly," Dicky repeated. "Mrs. Veritzen always has had a tender romantic memory of you as her first girlish sweetheart. I think the memory even survived the experience of having been compelled to box your ears for trying to kiss her good-bye against her will. Mary did not tell us about that. My wife and I were involuntary and unwilling witnesses of that little scene."

Georges' lips curled into a sneer of incredulity. I knew by Dicky's eyes that he saw the look, and that his fingers itched to give the royal face another slap, more vigorous than Mary's. But he restrained the impulse, ignored the sneer, and went on.

"But what Mary—nor those near to her—could not forgive," Dicky went on, "was your persistent attempt to annoy her while she was in the sanitarium. You wrote her three letters, but you sent Olina only two brief notes during the same time, although you were betrothed to her. Mary thinks naturally that you were trying to get her on written record as fogiving you, for some unknown purpose of your own. My wife and I have had our hands full since her recovery in keeping her from showing those letters to her husband, and letting him deal with you."

Getting Set To Help Fill Friendship Train

Special to The Star

KENTON — Plans are in the making here for organization of effort within Hardin county for this community's contribution to the Ohio Friendship train, which will be filled in July for shipment of foodstuffs to the hungry populace of Europe.

First steps will be taken here Tuesday morning at a meeting of the Hardin county ministerial association, when county agricultural agent Boyce E. Bradford meets with the group to draw plans.

The proposal is that the Ohio train will be filled with grain and other foodstuffs from each county, according to what each raises in most abundance. It has been decided to ask Hardin county farmers for wheat at the latter part of the harvest season.

Plan Underway For Y.M.C.A. in Galion

Special to The Star

GALION, April 5—Steps toward the building of a Y. M. C. A. Community Center in Galion will be taken at a meeting for all citizens Wednesday night at Senior High school.

Election of trustees will take place, called by the temporary chairman, Rev. Philip E. Auer. The board will be elected from a roster of 25 candidates prepared by a temporary board. Additional nominations may be made from the floor on the night of the meeting, Rev. Auer said. All religious faiths, civic, patriotic, and fraternal groups of the city will be represented on the board, he added.

The new board will have four purposes: to plan essentials of the new proposed building, to select a site for the building, to plan for the necessary financial campaign, and to work out a program to be carried on in the Y.M.C.A.-Community center. The proposed center will be one of activity for the entire community, including women and girls as well as men and boys, Rev. Auer said.

Wednesday night the sound movie "Men of Tomorrow" made to commemorate the one-hundreth anniversary of the Y. M. C. A., with Lowell Thomas as narrator, will be shown. Y. M. C. A. officials will be present. The project of building such a recreational center for Galion was instigated by the Galion Business and Professional Women's club.

UNITY LECTURE TUESDAY

A phase of the twenty-third psalm, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," will be used as the subject for the Unity lecture at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night. Mrs. Mercedes Fossler will present the lecture at 7:30, and she will be in charge of the Unity study class at the Y at 2:30 p. m.

SAYS STEEL USERS HIT BY COAL STRIKE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 5 — Consumers of steel "are beginning to feel the effects of the coal strike," the trade publication Steel said today.

"Most producers think a reduction in consumer quotas for second quarter cannot be avoided, though prompt settlement of the coal strike might make it possible to overcome present handicaps," it stated.

"Shrinkage in raw steel supply is beginning to affect finishing mill operations and this trend will accelerate over the next week with corresponding drop in shipments to consumers. Demand continues in excess of supply, and if anything, pressure for shipments has increased."

Steel production had been running about 1,750,000 tons a week prior to the coal walkout, but last week dropped to about 1,590,000 tons, estimated Steel. The operating rate declined 4½ points to 88½ per cent of rated capacity.

"Unless the coal strike ends this week," said the magazine, "expectations are the national ingot rate will fall below 60 per cent within 10 days."

Steel said "production of pig iron and coke has been hit much more severely than steel, and this will be reflected shortly in steel operations."

It also reported that "feeler inquiries for national defense requirements are being received by steelmakers."

ROGERS SPEAKS TO FOREMEN

Says Communism Will Grow If Private Enterprise Isn't Explained.

"Communism will continue to expand in the United States and the rest of the world only so long as we fail to explain the facts about private enterprise and expose the glaring fallacies with which the 'Reds' attack it," declared Sherman Rogers, Cleveland author, magazine writer, economist, and speaker in an address before a meeting of the Foreman's Club of the Marion Power Shovel Co. at Hotel Harding Saturday night.

"Here is the charge made against private enterprise by the Communist leaders of this country in general and the Soviet leaders in particular.

"Under private ownership system a few stockholders get most of the income produced and the great masses of labor get but a small fraction of it.

"Here is the cold incontestable truth: from 1930 to 1947 from all the corporations in America for the 17 year period, employes received 643 billion dollars compared with 81 billion dollars received by the owners.

What Does Public Think

"Now what does the public think about it? Some 69 per cent of persons quizzed by public opinion polls believed owners get the largest share of income while 31 per cent believed employes get the largest share. Nine out of ten of our radical element become as sound as dollars when the truth is explained to them.

"A vast majority of the people of Italy believe that under capitalism the owners in this country get most of the money produced by industry and that the great masses get very little of it.

"Up to this moment I am certain that not one single economic truth about the division of income in the United States has ever been told to the peoples of Europe. I might add that a vast majority of our own people have never heard these facts and it is about time we tell them the story complete and now.

"Communist leaders in this country and the world over attack free enterprise on this one focal point and the complete silence on the part of our people to state the facts lends confirmation to the charges made by Communist agitators.

Should Wake Up

"We better wake up and get as enthusiastic about Americanism as the agitators get about Communism. Whenever we do Communism will fade out like fog before a noonday sun," concluded Mr. Rogers.

The speaker was presented by H. H. Douthitt, director of industrial relations of the Marion Power Shovel Co. and a friend of the speaker.

Mr. Rogers spent much time in Marion around 1920 when he was economic editor of Outlook Magazine, and was an intimate friend of the late President Warren G. Harding.

The dinner meeting was arranged by President Joseph C. Johnson of the Foreman's Club.

Firemen Answer 4 Calls Over Weekend

Firemen responded to four calls over a period of seven hours Sunday with minor fire loss being reported.

Starting at 1:55 p. m. firemen from Central and West Center street stations extinguished a blaze at the Erie railroad viaduct when the wooden abuttment became ignited. The fire was thought to have originated from hot cosls dropped from a locomotive. Damage was estimated at $10.

At 4:27 p. m. a grass fire along the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad south of Bellefontaine avenue, starting from sparks from a locomotive was put out by West Center street firemen. No loss was reported.

A fire in an automobile driven by Mrs. Harold Davis of 455 Shady Nook at 5:29 p. m., originating from a short circuit in the wiring of the car, resulted in an estimated $25 damage. The car was in front of 144 South State street when the fire occurred. Central firemen responded.

A fire resulting from a dropped cigaret in a car driven by James Willis of 536 Pearl street at 8:15 p. m. was extinguished at the Central station by fire company No. 1. Minor damage to the rear seat upholstery was reported.

D.A.R. Plans To Attend Rally in Crestline

CATHOLIC VETERANS ELECT TOLEDO MAN

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Donald J. McQuade of Toledo, a Coast Guard torpedoman during World War II, is the new president of Ohio's Catholic War Veterans.

The 24-year-old University of Toledo law student was elected yesterday to succeed Richard J. McManus of Cleveland.

Delegates also selected Toledo for the 1949 convention, and named I. B. Warrick, Toledo, first vice commander; John Powers, Youngstown, second vice commander; Charles Kovacick, Akron, third vice commander, and Bud Delaney, Toledo, treasurer.

Mary Eleanor Gilchrist, Akron, was elected historian. New trustees included P. J. McFarland, Akron.

One resolution adopted called for an investigation of the federal communications commission action in granting FM and television station licenses in Springfield, Mansfield, Toledo, Columbus and Erie, Pa., to Edward (Ted) Lamb, a Toledo attorney. The resolution said Lamb authored a book entitled "Planned Economy in Soviet Russia."

TWO CHOICES FOR MAYOR

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, April 5 — Milwaukeeans tomorrow have a choice of two young men for their next mayor — Socialist Frank P. Zeidler and Non-Partisan Henry Reuss. The voters will be exchanging age for youth. The incumbent, 80-year-old John Bohn, is not a candidate for reelection.

TO BUILD SCOUTS' LODGE

MT. GILEAD—Members of the Mt. Gilead Lions club voted to start construction of a Boy Scout lodge at Camp Whiston near Mt. Gilead when they held a special meeting last week. The lodge will be located on a four acre tract of land just east of Mt. Gilead on route 95 where the "Old Mill" once stood. The land was donated to the scouts by Roy Whiston, Mt. Gilead druggist. The scouts later named the site Camp Whiston.

Gov. Herbert Challenged To Sirup Test in Vermont

By The Associated Press

CHARDON, O., April 5—Vermont's governor, Ernest W. Gibson, wants another sirup-sipping contest with Gov. Thomas J. Herbert of Ohio.

The first one, held here Saturday, ended in a draw. Gibson was double-crossed by a double dose of Ohio maple sirup. Herbert had two spoonfulls of Vermont's.

Both Governors insisted their second spoonful was a product of their home state—"and, of course, the best."

They joined in the laughs after the hoax was revealed. Yesterday, Governor Gibson challenged Herbert to a 1949 taste test in the Green Mountain state.

Herbert indicated he was willing—providing he wins reelection in November.

It's NO. 1 on the "It" Parade

It's much the same way with cars as with people.

Some "have it" — some don't.

Some you go for, all out — without quite being able to lay a finger on why. And those — well, they usually become your firmest friends.

What is it that makes so many good folks say this trim honey's "got it"? Good looks? One has to admit it's nice to ride in a car that is unmistakably itself and not just a slightly modified version of something else.

Size, weight? Well, the polls tell us it's a pretty important factor since, if you like an automobile that does things, there just is no substitute for brawn and solid substance.

Power? Naturally. You can't sit long behind this big Fireball straight-eight without falling for it plenty hard.

Handling? Ride? Room? They all have their avid fans among Buick owners. Especially now with a completely new kind of engine mounting ironing out vibration build-up as never before, and in this Convertible model, with automatic top, door-window and front-seat adjustment.

Is it the wonderful new Dynaflow Drive* that's causing so much talk?

In Roadmaster models that is certainly a big factor. You'll never know how silky smooth a drive can be — what finest new ease there is to all your going — till you drive the car where liquid replaces both the clutch and first, second and high gears.

But as nearly as we can find out — and we talk to a lot of people — it isn't any one thing that puts Buick at the top of the "it" parade. It's the over-all richness of this honey in all the things you've dreamed of finding wrapped in an automobile.

Ask any friend who drives a Buick — then see your dealer and get a firm order in, with or without a car to trade.

WHAT'S DIFFERENT ABOUT DYNAFLOW DRIVE*?

To an efficient new pump (left above), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produces a torque-boosting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

*Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models only.

Initiative in War of Nerves Belongs to the United States

IF THE UNITED STATES must wage a war of nerves it had better pull itself together and quit having flurries of hysterics and meloncholia.

While it may seem in the short view that the Soviet Union has taken the initiative and will be able to hold it, the United States always has had the real initiative and is in no real danger of losing it. What looks like a Russian offensive turns out on careful inspection to be a counter-offensive dictated by necessity, not choice.

The Truman doctrine, the Marshall plan and a stiffening policy in Germany have let the kremlin know what it feared most to learn—that the United States intends to stand between nations fearing Russian designs and the instruments for carrying out those designs. Hence the bitter Russian charge of imperialism against this government, an attempt to discredit its motives.

The activation of Russian-guided interference in other countries by Communists was stimulated and made to happen ahead of schedule by evidence that the United States did not intend to revert to isolationism. Russia is poorly prepared to exert a dynamic effort at this time. Behind the iron curtain lies a grievously wounded nation with a fear psychosis generated by a sense of insecurity. What seems to be Russian cocksureness, is bluster—an extremely dangerous bluff that the kremlin cannot afford to have called but must make anyway to conceal the weakness of its position from the outside world and its own people.

The potentialities of the United States, grossly underestimated by aggressors in two shooting wars, are likely to be underestimated by the American people in a war of nerves. Thus, it is hard for them to see that their doctrine of freedom automatically bestows on them the initiative in the judgment of nations whose wars always have been fought to prevent domination by political despots. The Soviet Union has no natural allies in a war of nerves or a shooting war.

Whatever jitters ensue in a war of nerves should be left for the Russians whose jitters started it.

The Hammer Treatment

THE PRESIDENTIAL board of inquiry in the coal mine shutdown finds circumstantial evidence that John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers have violated the Taft-Hartley act and that the effect is a national crisis. This automatically brings the act into operation.

The next step is to call the UMW president to account for his actions in federal injunction proceedings. His defense has been outlined, it is that he had nothing directly to do with the mine shutdown, that it was a spontaneous action by 325,000-odd miners, not a strike. He will argue that he is involved only in a dispute over the administration of the welfare and pension fund set up under the existing contract, that operators "dishonored" their agreement and that miners quit work. The fact is in this respect that Mr. Lewis himself made agreement impossible by an irreconcilable attitude, and that point, too, will be reviewed in the courts.

The shutdown is a clear challenge to the Taft-Hartley act. But that is incidental. It is a challenge to the United States, which has been crippled periodically for years by mine shutdowns following the famous John L. Lewis hammer treatment—Mr Lewis hitting the country on the head with his mine labor monopoly until the country was so grateful when he stopped that it forgot to be mad at him for hurting it in the first place. The Taft-Hartley act was passed to deal with this kind of irresponsible leadership. Perhaps it isn't adequate. If it isn't, it will have to be made adequate.

Since the last time Mr. Lewis hit the country on the head with his mine labor monopoly until it felt good when he stopped, the American people have resolved to hit back the next time he tried it—until it felt good when they stopped.

Depressing Performance

IT'S BEGINNING to be a question whether quarreling Democrats are opposing the Republicans or one another. Like all shattered coalitions of minority groups, they are more interested in their own squabbles than in the welfare of their disillusioned followers.

Their nominal leader, Mr. Truman, inevitably has been made the scapegoat. The fault is clearly not his, though he is getting most of the brickbats. The weaknesses that deserting party members are complaining about are their own weaknesses for the most part.

It is a depressing performance—depressing not only because of what it means to the Democratic party but because it points up the greatest weakness of the American political system. As President, Mr. Truman has lost the confidence of his own party. This would mean under a parliamentary system that he would step aside to permit the formation of a new government.

As it is, he will have the responsibility of administration until January, 1949. If to his present handicap is added the greater handicap of being denied the party's nomination for the November election, the country will have a "lame duck" president during the last six months of this year.

Scanning the Record

Question Now, Who Is To Administer ERP?

NOW that ERP has fought its way through congress the important question is, who is to administer it? The roving ambassador will undoubtedly be Lewis Douglas, who is a competent and experienced person, having seen service in the legislative and executive branches of government, in private business and in diplomacy. He is a capable negotiator and would be served under both presidents Roosevelt and Truman, he has never been a New Dealer and cannot be included among those who got us into our present mess.

SOKOLSKY

For the administrator of ERP, five names have been suggested which merit our attention William L Clayton, Paul G. Hoffman, Eric Johnston, Ferdinand Eberstadt and John J. McCloy of the world bank.

Of the five, William L Clayton ought to be excluded on the ground that he was in the state department when it got the United States into most of its present difficulties and he negotiated the British loan which was misrepresented to the American people by our government. In a word, what this country needs most is a clean sweep. It requires men who have had no connection with the structure of untruths that brought down upon our heads a situation the consequences of which we cannot foresee. Everybody connected with Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam, with the Quebec conference and the Morgenthau plan, with the propagandistic untruths surrounding the British loan ought to be retired from public life. That is the only way to produce an objective view of our current problems. Apart from this general principle, I have no criticism to offer to Clayton.

Auto Maker

Paul G. Hoffman is the president of the Studebaker company and operates the committee for economic development, known as the CED, which has gained considerable popularity among business men. He is a likeable person, an excellent speaker and good public relations counsel I know of nothing in his career that would fit him to administer ERP.

Eric Johnston is much the same type as Paul G. Hoffman. He has been president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and now holds Will Hays' job with the motion picture industry. He recently negotiated successfully an agreement with the British government for the motion picture industry. Apart from that, he has neither the experience nor the qualifications to administer ERP.

Neither Hoffman nor Johnston could be counted on to do anything that might make them unpopular, no matter how right and beneficial to the nation the courting of unpopularity might be. Clayton, Hoffman and Johnston are big spenders who would probably end up by asking for more. I, as one citizen, have no confidence in their capacity to resist European, particularly British, blandishments.

Ferdinand Eberstadt, by training, experience, character and knowledge, fits the post But Truman may resist his appointment. Eberstadt is a banker and industrialist and Truman, in his present terror of Wallace, might resist appointing bankers to important positions, even though, as regards ERP, it is a banking position which can best be filled only by banker. It is being suggested that Secretary of Defense Forrestal may object to Eberstadt.

This is difficult to believe as both men made their careers in the same banking house, Dillon, Read, and have often been associated. Eberstadt was chairman of the Army and Navy munitions board, 1942; he was vice chairman of the war production board, 1942-3; he prepared the Eberstadt report for the secretary of the navy, 1945, the aforesaid secretary being Forrestal; he was a member of Bernard Baruch's atomic energy commission and did yeoman service in that fight. Eberstadt would not only do an efficient job but he will protect the United States of America—and blandishments would make no difference.

John J. McCloy has done a first-rate job as head of the world bank and would be splendid in this position My vote would be either for Eberstadt or McCloy, if one or the other would be willing to undertake the job. Eberstadt would go to it with good references which would include Bernard Baruch and Herbert Hoover; McCloy has the standing of excellent accomplishments in a difficult office.

The Core of Our Strength

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

THE odds are still on peace. Yet for the first time the possibility of war—not next year, nor in five years, nor in ten years, but war in the next weeks or months—is admitted by sober leaders of the government. It is time to take stock of our strength. It is time especially to ask whether if the worst happens, we really can deliver the knock-out blow, which will be the only means of avoiding a long, drawn-out, world-destroying war of attrition.

The answer to this riddle depends on two questions. First, does our monopoly of the atomic bomb really permit us to knock out a great land power like the Soviet Union? Second, have we the capability of delivering atomic bombs to the Soviet Union's vital centers?

No question is more bitterly debated by the services than the first. The best that can be said is that the political and economic experts who have devoted their lives to studying the Soviet system believe that its war-making power will rapidly disintegrate if its vital centers are destroyed. If this is correct, everything depends on our own capability to deliver the atomic bomb to these vital centers. And this means, of course, that everything depends on the capability of our strategic aircraft to strike over great distances into the Soviet heartland.

Job for B-29s

Recent rigorous tests show that standard B-29s, operating with standard crews can strike at targets more than 2,000 miles distant and return from their mission. With this range, bases in the Western Hemisphere can not be used. But it is inconceivable that the Red Army can simultaneously and instantaneously overrun western Europe, the Mediterranean, the Middle East and northern India. From any of these regions, aircraft with an operating radius of 2,000 miles can reach the Soviet heartland.

Furthermore, it may seem strange; but it is a simple operational fact that B-29s can now be equipped for re-fueling in the air. They are thus enabled to strike at and return from vastly more distant targets. The system sounds so much like one of the more lurid comic strips that most people find its effectiveness difficult to credit. But air re-fueling has been fully tested by the British, and has even been used in passenger operations. With only one re-fueling on the way out, B-29s can strike at and return from targets 3,000 miles distant. Refueling on the way out and on the way home, they can reach targets 4,000 miles distant. Modification of the B-29s to permit air re-fueling is just as important in Boeing's huge new modification contract as adaptation of the aircraft to receive atomic bombs.

Thus the capability to penetrate the Soviet heartland already exists. But can the B-29s, driving home the attack across the huge spaces of Russia, survive interception by high-altitude, high-speed German jet fighters which the Soviets have been hastily producing since the end of the war?

Tests Conducted

Here again, rigorous tests have been conducted with B-29 aircraft flying over an area with as dense and strong a radar warning system as now exists in the world. Of the B-29's engaged in the test, 60 per cent were located by the warning net. After location, fighters found 40 per cent.

Under war conditions, of course, only this 40 per cent would have been subject to fighter attack. Equally, of course, the B-29's defensive armament would have accounted for some of the fighters. The inference is that only a limited number of these B-29s would have failed to accomplish their mission, even against the heaviest odds.

A Lechorn In Your Living Room?

A New York millinery designer suggests that, when not being worn, women's hats should be placed under glass on the mantel or in a frame on the wall, since they are "works of art and make lovely decorations."

This is an ingenious suggestion although it doubtless had occurred to some that one of Carmen Miranda's castoff headpieces would make a suitable centerpiece for the dining room table.

The idea of building a chateau around a chapeau is a dangerous one. Most citizens can't afford to redecorate the whole house each time the little woman acquired a new hat.

Still, women have had difficulty enough selecting their hats, without trying to visualize how it would go with the drapes.

Admittedly, the thought of framing a hat and placing it on the wall intrigues me. But I still have no intention of taking down Grandpa and putting up the Empress Eugenie.

In fact, if you ask me, it's some of the designers—and not their wares—which really should be nailed.

ITHACA, N. Y.—Fathers ought to know just as much about bringing up children as mothers do, believes Ramon Alan of Paterson, N. J. He's the only man among 50 young women taking a course in "Principles of Child Guidance" at Cornell University's college of home economics.

Alan, a senior in the college of mechanical engineering, expects to apply his new-found knowledge in bringing up his own son, born in December.

Originally, both Mr. and Mrs. Alan planned to take the course. But Mrs. Alan fell ill and Pop Alan had to carry on alone.

The Big Yo-Yo

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, April 5, 1938.

Visitors swarmed into the town of Marietta for the beginning of a week-long celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Northwest territory. The festival opened with a pageant, "Wagons West," in which 1,000 persons took part.

Four hundred persons were present to see motion pictures of a pack train trip through the Rockies and hear V. B. Gray, rod and gun editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, at a meeting of the Marion County Fish and Game Protective association at the Marion Steam Shovel Gym.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Huber of Uncapher avenue.

Mrs. Gaenelle Shaw Sayle of Newport, Ky., was visiting her father, J. Lee Shaw and her aunt, Mrs. John F. Kreis of West Walnut street.

Describing the world situation as "desperate" and citing as "the most alarming situation in recent years the conquest of Austria by Hitler without firing a shot," Dr. Sherwood Eddy, internationally known traveller and lecturer, spoke to an audience of more than 1,000 persons at the First Presbyterian church on the topic "Europe Today."

Mrs. Bessie Hogan of Cherry street entertained members of the Wide Awake club.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, April 5, 1928.

Chauncey M. DePew, former United States senator and for many years a leader in the Republican party died of pneumonia in New York City at the age of 93.

Announcement was made that Earl N. Hale, Y.M.C.A. secretary of Tiffin who had been employed as secretary here, was expected about May 1 to take over his new duties.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs Dale Maynard at their home on Rose avenue.

Mrs. George Hubbard of Cincinnati was a visitor for a week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Shoots of East Church street.

John McNamara, student at the University of Dayton, was visiting his parents on Courtland avenue during the Easter vacation.

A banquet was given at Vernon Heights Junior High school for pupils who had made up the cast of "The Windmills of Holland," an operetta given by the school in February. The principal talk was given by Supt. Jesse H. Mason and guests of honor were Misses Irene Epler, and Lela Brookshire who directed the operetta.

U. S. Must Alter Strategy

By Walter Lippmann

THE tempo of events is so rapid both in the east and in the west that estimates of the situation have to be kept under continuous review.

Diplomatic intercourse on the crucial issues of war and peace, is not broken But it is suspended. And therefore none of the government's concerned is able to act on knowledge; all are compelled to act on hypotheses as to what each may do on the basis of estimates of what each believes the other could do.

LIPPMANN

That is why it cannot be said too often or too emphatically that the men of highest responsibility in the administration and in Congress should remain in continuous and close consultation.

Thus it is necessary to re-examine the accepted strategical conception held by our military services in the light of what has happened during the past month.

The seizure of Czechoslovakia, the demands on Finland and the pressure on Scandinavia, the probing of Allied determination in Berlin, and the indication of extralegal action in Italy are one half of the new situation. The other half is the enactment of E. R. P., the signature of the Brussels alliance and the beginning of American rearmament.

The Russian actions in the past month cannot, on a prudent estimate, be judged as meaning less than that they intend to have a showdown before the European Recovery Program begins to give results, before western Europe is politically consolidated and united, and before the American military power is effectively remobilized.

A showdown does not necessarily mean war But it involves the willingness to take the risk of war on the assumption that the risk is less in the near future than it would be in the more distant future.

The formation of the western union, which was hastened by the Russian actions, is directly related to the new hypothesis that if there is to be war, it will come sooner than was thought possible before the coup in Prague, and that if war is to be prevented, reliance cannot be placed on long-term measures of economic reconstruction, political development, and military preparedness.

Urgent Question

The most urgent question which has to be decided now is how this country is to carry out the promise of the president's message that "the United States will, by appropriate means, extend" to the free nations of Europe the military support which they need in order "to protect themselves."

It is a very difficult question because, as a matter of fact, the accepted conceptions of American military strategy and American diplomatic policy are, to put it conservatively, not co-ordinated. They are, in fact, divergent and this divergence will not have to be reconciled.

American diplomatic policy under the Truman doctrine is "to give support to any nation which is threatened with Soviet domination. As it has developed since the Marshall plan was proposed, the United States is sponsoring the united resistance of western Europe, and the Brussels alliance—the so-called western union—now expects and requires effective American military support.

The accepted American strategy, however, is not based on the idea of defending the threatened countries directly but on the idea of defending them indirectly by our ability to deliver a knockout blow at the heart of Russia.

The western union, which, as a matter of honor and vital interest, includes not only the five signatories but also Italy, Scandinavia, western Germany, Turkey, Greece and Iran, compels us to re-examine our strategical conception.

For the theatened nations, to whom we have said that they should unite and resist, will not be satisfied by an American commitment to punish the Russians if they cross the threshold. They will expect, and our diplomatic policy has given them the right to expect, that we shall use our whole power to lock the door so that the Russians cannot cross the threshold.

This is a new problem for the American military planners and commanders, and it is of paramount importance and urgency. Our commitment to go to war if the free nations are attacked is no longer adequate to the political situation produced by the formation of the western union.

The free nations which, under our urging, have turned away from appeasement and the search for some form of isolation or neutrality, will now have to be convinced that they can and will be enabled to defend themselves against invasion and occupation.

Promise Not Enough

It will not do to leave them with the promise that eventually, after Russia has been defeated, they will be liberated.

On this point we must not deceive ourselves. Our European allies must feel confidence that they can resist the Russians successfully at their frontiers. Otherwise, their native Communists will offer them freedom from the horrors of war in return for non-resistance to Communist domination.

Offered that alternative, there will be many, no doubt, who will prefer death, exile, or the underground, to submission But in countries where nearly 30 per cent of the people have voted Communist, a good many of the others, faced with the prospects of an international war which would be for them a civil war as well, would certainly try to sit out the conflict by some combination of nonresistance, collaboration, isolation and neutrality.

Therefore, come what may, hold fast to love. Though men shou'd rend your heart, let them not embitter or harden it.—F. W. Robertson.

RACING SEASON

A furtive way,
A whisper low,
A quiet "Okay!"...
And "so long, dough!"

A knowing nod,
A voice quite thin,
A shrunken war,
And "Lost again!"

A tip quite hot,
Discreetly fed,
The last two-spot,
And so to bed!"

The Republicans are so confident this year that they have talked with Alf Landon about running, and have even asked whatever became of Coolidge.

Philadelphia is to have two national political conventions this summer, which just goes to show what queer ideas that town has about fun. (Released by The Associated Newspapers, Inc.)

Anniversary Waltz

By TRUMAN TWILL

JOHN McCLAIN, a former resident of Marion is writing a column called "Man About Manhattan" for The New York Sun McClain knows all the celebrities—and they all know him.

He complained recently that these people almost never say anything bright when he's around. He never picks up any gems. Celebrities, as far as he can see, are no different from anyone else.

If it isn't too presumptuous for Truman T to point out a pitfall to a Broadway brother, McClain had better quit brooding about how commonplace his material is. He's heading for trouble.

Every columnist comes up against the same danger sooner or later, and each one has to decide in his way what to do about it. Somehow the commonplace material at hand must be dramatized, or there'd be no reason to write columns. Newspaper readers would get no relief from a steady diet of who, what, where, when and why—no maybe, which is where columnists step in.

Their job is to season the flat taste of daily life with a dash of speculation and a pinch of fancy. This is true whether they are writing about Manhattan, politics, sports, business children, food or what have you. They start with what is and write about what might be. They improve on reality. It's the only reason for their existence.

It has been 10 years since this particular column got under way. The kind of commonplace material it proposed to deal with when it began were the circumstances of everyday living. The theory was that people whose own lives were composed of commonplace goings and comings would be sympathetic to a column of commonplace subjects, with a dash of dramatization to make them palatable.

The result hasn't been sensational. But the column has proceeded on that basis for a decade, and apparently no harm has been done in endowing household pets with the gift of speech, ordinary events with the aura of importance, commonplace human beings with the theatrical mask of humor.

Even when the subject matter occasionally became something momentous, like the antics of the late Benito Mussolini, the idea was to write about it from the point of view of ordinary human beings trying to put momentous things in the perspective they used on such unimportant things as mishaps in their own lives—broken shoestrings, household gadgets that failed to work, etc.

There have been some 3,500 columns since the spring of 1938, and if the gods are willing there will be some more. Animals will talk, adults will giggle at themselves, annoyances will be analyzed for traces of humor and there will be essays about such trifling things as pumpkin recipes, installation of screens, removal of storm windows, baldness, women's hats and other assorted absurdities.

Meanwhile, a clipping will be sent to Columnist McClain, who writes about Manhattan, to warn him to avoid the pitfalls of reasoning that his celebrities are a dull lot. Aren't we?

Government scientists have developed several coatings made out of milk which can be used on metal, some of which may eventually be used as a substitute for tin coatings now used on cans for some foods.

MARANATHA EVANGELIST SERVICES TO CONTINUE

Three services of the evangelistic campaign being sponsored jointly by the Maranatha Bible church and Christian and Missionary Alliance congregation were held Sunday at the Maranatha church, and the special effort will be continued this week, it was announced. Good attendance and growing interest in the services was reported by Rev. Earl L. Holliday of the Maranatha church. Rev. Tom Presnell is the evangelist, and he will preach tonight on "Treasures in Heaven." Special music will be an accordion solo by Donald Weaver, and Rev. David E. Weinzierl of the Missionary Alliance church will sing.

Messages by Rev. Presnell Sunday were on "Soul Winning," "The Anti-Christ," and "Hell." Among his statements were "When we see the value God puts on a soul, we'll be concerned about being soul winners. The anti-Christ is a system of heresy that denies the deity and lordship of Jesus Christ. Jesus gave 11 accounts in the gospels about hell, only one about eternal bliss. Hell is located at the end of the 'broad way'."

LEAVES MAJOR PART OF ESTATE TO STATE

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, April 5—The major portion of a $45,000 estate will go to the commonwealth of Pennsylvania because barber John Gellert felt the state "could use the money."

Attorney J. Channing Ellery said yesterday the will, filed for probate Saturday, stipulated that $75 be set aside for care of the 60-year-old bachelor's grave and $250 for a granite tombstone.

"The residue of my estate," Ellery said Gellert directed him to write, "I leave to the commonwealth of Pennsylvania for general purposes."

Ellery said Gellert, who lived alone and had as his chief interest a flock of chickens, killed himself. The attorney, who drew up the will in October, 1943, said that as far as he knows Gellert never worked for the state or benefitted in any unusual manner from any state service.

Gellert's only close relative, a bachelor brother, died shortly before Gellert had his will prepared, Ellery said.

Don't Plant Too Early This Spring

Give your vegetables a chance to grow.

BE SURE not to plant before the soil is ready. The U. S. Weather Bureau Frost Maps* will tell you when the last killing frost is out of the ground.

But whether spring comes late or early, here's a helpful test. Crush a handful of soil in the palm of your hand. If you can make a mud pie of it, it's too wet to spade. But if it crumbles, it is ready to plant.

Once your seeds are planted be sure their thirsty roots get all the water they need.

*Write to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. The maps are 5¢ each.

BROMFIELD ON SPENDING

GALION—That we should eye with suspicion the activities of the Army, Navy and Air Corps leaders who are apparently trying to scare the people into spending more and more money for military preparations, because the more we spend, the more it costs us, and we move nearer inflation, were warnings which reverberated throughout the address by Louis Bromfield at Senior High school auditoriupm last Friday night. The noted author-farmer of nearby Lucas appeared under sponsorship of the Foremen's club of the Hercules Steel Products corporation. "High taxation and inflation go hand in hand," the author said.

Ohio Federation Of Music Clubs Plans Festival

Plans are being forwarded for the junior festival of the Ohio Federation of Music clubs to be held in Columbus April 24 under direction of Mrs. H. J. Mautz of 236 South Seffner avenue, Marion, state junior counselor and chairman of the state festival. Members of the Marion Junior and Juvenile Lecture - Recital clubs will participate in various classifications of the festival which will be held at the Columbus Boychoir school at 788 East Broad street there by invitation of that school. An announcement has been made that all applications for entrants in the festival competitions are to be received by Mrs. Mautz before April 10.

Several Marion young club members were among 300 entrants in the festival last year. It is hoped that for the forthcoming festival, last year's figure will be doubled, Mrs. Mautz stated. Besides the instrumental and vocal competitions at the festival, there will be club and individual scrapbook judging, and a competition for young composers has been arranged, with original compositions to be received by Mrs. Mautz by April 10. These will be sent to the National Federation for judging, it was stated. Mrs. Jessie N. Eagleson of Columbus is national chairman of junior composers. Particularly emphasized in junior work nationally this year is the junior division slogan stressed by Mrs. James Alexander of Alabama, national junior counselor, "Let us learn to love and understand our world neighbors through the universal language of music."

For the festival, Mrs. Earl Schell of Marion, district junior club counselor, will be room chairman. Mrs. Ralph Mills is local Juvenile club counselor, and Miss Wanda McMahan and Mrs. John Lacey, Junior club counselor and assistant. Mrs. Mautz is a former local junior counselor having served in that capacity 10 years, and she was district counselor 12 years. Editor of the state junior division publication, Forward Junior Ohio, is another Marion woman, Mrs. Leroy Schneider.

Local officers are, Junior club, Mary Ellen Hinamon, Frederick Lacey, Jane Baldauf, James Wanner and Billy Wagner; and Juvenile club, Phyllis Corbin, Anita Porter, Shirley Jo Young, Sarah Meister and Sally Schneider. It was announced that the day of the festival luncheon will be served at the school with reservations to be made through counselors. Following luncheon, a program announcing of festival awards will be held at the Columbus Art museum.

It is estimated that the average U. S. industrial worker had twice as much free time for recreation in 1940 than in 1890.

Three Phases of Work

"We have divided our opera... into three general phases," ... said. "Phase one is looking ... that period of time between ... and the first notice. ... two, which blends into ... one, has to do with classifi... and induction. Phase three is the process of induction itself."

Three committees are taking up each phase and correlating activities to avoid duplication of effort.

"A fourth committee," Omer said, "is working on finance and supply. Its problems are to find out how fast we can get 20,000,000 cards and questionnaires printed if we need them, and also to find out how fast we can get quarters for local selective service boards, and what the situation is on transportation.

Record Forms Examined

"A fifth committee is looking into forms to find out what changes are needed from the selective service forms we used in the last war—now they can be improved. We did not set up a separate committee of our medical officers because we felt they should work with the third, or induction committee, itself."

Omer said that the chairmen of all committees meet with him for several hours twice a week to talk over their progress.

The OSSR is planning its operations on legislation that will draft unmarried, non-veteran men from 19 through 25 years of age. But Omer said that if congress approves registration of all men aged 18 through 44 as proposed by the administration his organization could adapt its plans very quickly.

to return to work came despite a government injunction ordering them to end the walkout.

The Waterman Mine of Rochester & Pittsburgh Coal Co. opened for its regular midnight shift last night. Not one of the 325 diggers showed up.

One West Virginia miner, Murel Pritt, of Ward, said:

"I asked several of the fellows if they were going to work. They just laughed."

The coal diggers generally said they wanted some definitie work return order from their United Mine Workers chief, Lewis.

UMW district leaders said setniment of the miners was: "No pension—no work."

Ohio Miners Idle

Adolph Pacifico, president of UMW district 6 at Bellaire, O., said he was certain the state's 18,000 miners would stay home today.

"The miners seem to have decided they're not going back to work until the pension dispute is settled," he reported.

William Vaughn, UMW representative at Walsenburg, Colo., said miners in his district would return to the pits only when the pension fund issue is settled.

UMW officials in top coal producing states of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Alabama and Kentucky and Virginia also doubted that any soft coal would be mined today.

BUILT WITH RILCO RAFTERS MORE USABLE ROOM!

Here's the modern Rilco Machine Shed you've always wanted. Its interior is completely free of posts and braces giving wide unobstructed floor space. It makes it easy to get your machinery in and out. Plenty of height for larger implements. More protection for your machinery because this Rilco building is convenient to use.

Rilco Machine Sheds with their modern streamlined appearance are built with the famous engineered and factory-built Rilco Laminated Wood Rafter Arches. These rafter arches are delivered to your farm ready for erection. Saves labor hours and material.

Rilco rafter arches are the strongest known type of framing. They build stronger, sturdier, more wind-resistant structures. They are continuous framing members running from foundation to roof ridge, thus eliminating the joining of side wall to roof which is the weakest point of ordinary construction. Rilco rafters are securely anchored to sill with special Rilco angle irons, and joined at ridge with Rilco metal ridge plates. You can obtain almost any floor size and height you want.

Come in and see us for more information. A Rilco Machine Shed will serve many uses on your farm—it's the most practical utility building.

ONE MAN KILLED AS CHURCH PICKS PASTOR

By The Associated Press

STEELTON, Pa., April 5—One man was killed and another seriously wounded during a church meeting yesterday to select a new minister. District Attorney Carl B. Shelley reported.

Shelley said the dead man was Koscke Atzeff, 24, of Steelton. He identified the wounded man as Boris Maiff, 30, of Harrisburg, Pa.

The district attorney said he would file a charge of murder against George Minoff of Steelton. Under the state Sunday laws in effect in Dauphin county, Shelley said he couldn't file the murder charge until today.

Shelley said the meeting in the Macedonian church hall broke up when some one pulled a gun and fired two shots.

"One man in the back of the room started to talk while the chairman was reading a letter from a pastor in Bulgaria who wanted the job," Shelley related.

"An argument started," he said, "and soon there was a free-for-all fight in progress."

Shelley said Minoff told him he tried to break up the fight. He quoted Minoff as saying: "I told them to quit."

Then, according to Shelley, Minoff fired point blank at Atzeff and Miaff after which he walked out of the church and surrendered to the Steelton police.

HOLDUP TRIO PICKED UP IN 22 MINUTES

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., April 5—Twenty-two minutes and 23 miles after an early morning restaurant holdup today, two men and a woman were arrested and the money recovered.

Deputy Foster Palmer said the trio registered as Wallace R. Black, 24, of Columbus, his wife, Vera, 25, and Donald DeVere Bowman, 29, of Cleveland. Palmer quoted Bowman as saying he was only a hitchhiker the Blacks had picked up.

One man entered the Wade and Roberts restaurant at 1 a. m., herded 14 customers and the proprietors, Wilbur Wade and Dick Roberts, into the kitchen with two revovlers, and took between $200 and $250 from the cash register, Palmer said. During the robbery a second man looked in, then went back out, he added.

The holdup man rushed out into a waiting automobile, but parked right behind it was Walter Ink, of Lexington, a nearby village. He noted the license number and gave it to police when they answered a call for help.

Twenty-two minutes later police in Mount Vernon, 25 miles away, stopped a car and arrested the trio. Palmer said the money was found in Mrs. Black's possession and the guns were in the glove compartment of the car.

The three were returned here, and Wade and Roberts identified Black as the holdup man and Bowman as the man who had looked into the restaurant then disappeared.

Palmer said armed robbery charges would be filed against Black later today.

MAILMAN HOLDS THE BAG

Editor, The Star: To whom do I write in congress, please, to see about getting some help for the poor postman? The postman is wretchedly underpaid.

I understand there is a bill pending in congress, lost somewhere in committee, to give postal employes a cost-of-living increase but nobody does anything about it. Why not? And, who do I see about getting some action on this?

It's my money. I'm willing to spend some of it to see that the mail carrier and other postal employes get a decent living wage. How do I get somebody to listen to me?

Why do I care? Because I think it's a dirty trick that the last citizens to be considered for relief and wage increases when prices go up are those civil servants who work for the postal service. We take them too much for granted. The mail is always in front of the door in the morning, so why worry about the folks who get it there. This is my own private crusade I am waging because I feel like it.

The mailman, you know, can't strike. He signs a piece of paper when he takes his job giving up that right. That's civil service. He gets certain other benefits in exchange, but he has no way of calling it forcibly to your attention that he needs more money to live on and needs it badly.

Can you imagine the chaos if the nation had to go a month, or a week, or even a couple of days without mail service?

How you would kick and scream and yell and look into the matter of the wages of postal employes, and when you saw how little they were getting you would shout clear down to Washington for congress to vote them a fair wage and end the strike.

Do you have to have a strike to do that? Is that the only way anybody can get a square shake? Because if it is, the postman is sunk.

Why couldn't one donate 15 minutes, or a half hour out of an entire year to the boys and gals who handle such a vital adjunct to your daily life? That and a three-cent stamp, that's all it would take, no dough. Just the time it takes to sit down and write to your congressman saying in effect, "Hey, Brother Congressman. This is John W. Taxpayer and Voter speaking. How about cutting out the politics and the stalling and the phony economizing and getting busy on paying your postal employes enough to live on like human beings instead of poor relations?"

Or if you are not a letter writer, why not clip this column, write "Me too" on the bottom, sign your name and mail it to your congressman or senator. The work of two or three minutes.

When the mailman came in the morning you'd be able to say, "Hey, I wrote to congress today to hurry up and give you more dough." He would give you a big smile, and a handshake and "Thank you!" You'd feel wonderful all day.

So would he.

Only in Gold

Our profession is not for anyone interested solely in making money. A good funeral director must have an interest in people. He must be willing to serve in any way, at any time, and he must be prepared to give the best service of which he is capable to those in most modest circumstances just as willingly as he serves those to whom expense is a matter of no importance.

As members of the Order of the Golden Rule, an international affiliation of dependable funeral directors, we are prepared to demonstrate our ability and our desire to render "Service Measured Not by GOLD, but by the GOLDEN RULE". Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

THE small man at the bar was nibbling away at a cheese sandwich when the big man next to him said.

"Buddy, this is a big anniversary. Drink up on me."

"What you celebrating?" asked the little man cautiously.

"The return of beer," said the big man. "Came back fifteen years ago this week. A wonderful day in history."

"Why?"

"It got me a job with a brewery."

Hal Boyle

The little man looked unimpressed.

"I see," said the big man, "you don't understand how important beer is. Do you know why the pilgram fathers landed at Massachusetts instead of Virginia?"

"No."

"Because the ship ran out of beer!" said the big man triumphantly. "Brewing is at least 5,000 years old. We got proof even that Noah took beer along with him on his ark."

"Hmm, how interesting," said the little man.

"Yep, beer's been a big business ever since man climbed down out of the trees.

"Where do you think Joseph Priestley got his theory on how you need air to live? By watching bubbles rising in a brewery vat.

"Remember that guy John Alden who beat Myles Standish's time with Priscilla? Why do you think they brought him along on the Mayflower? Because he was a cooper and could keep the beer barrels repaired."

"I never heard that one," mumbled the little man, his his mouth full of sandwich.

"WHY, AMERICA wouldn't have been nothing except for beer. William Penn introduced beer into Pennsylvania and had his own brewery. Most of the big shots did then.

"Samuel Adams, the father of the American revolution, was a brewer. Patrick Henry had a private brewer sent over from Scotland when he was governor of Virginia. Paul Revere designed tankards for ale and beer.

"During the revolutionary war congress voted every soldier a quart of beer a day, and George Washington complained because his boys didn't always get it. George himself had his own recipe for beer.

"Where do you think the U. S. Marine Corps was born? In a tavern in Philadelphia. What did the first white child born in New York grow up to be? A brewer. You ever hear of Francis Scott Key?"

"Where's he from?" asked the little man tentatively.

"Where's he from!" mocked the big man pityingly. "Who cares where's he from. He wrote 'The Star Spangled Banner,' our national anthem. And the flag that caused him to write it was sewn together on a brewery floor. Only place big enough they could find."

"I NEVER KNEW that before," said the little man. He began to hum the anthem.

"Lot's of things people don't know about the beer industry," said the big man sternly. "Such as the breweries got a $165,000,000 payroll a year. We forked over more than nine hundred million bucks in state and federal taxes last year.

"We paid more than 3½ billion bucks in taxes since beer came back 15 years ago. And you know what, in that time the crime rate has gone down and so has industrial accidents and auto deaths.

And retail trade has gone up. So has the soft drink business and motion pictures. Beer never hurt 'em at all."

"All this talk," said the little man, "has made me thirsty."

"Now you're talking. What'll you have? It's on me."

"A nice big glass of cold foamy—"

"Beer!" said the big man genially.

"No, thanks, I'll take milk."

"Milk!!!!"

"Yes, milk," said the little man firmly. "I sell dairy products myself."

MORROW CO. FAIR BOARD PLANNING 98TH EVENT

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, April 5 — John Jagger of Mt. Gilead was named the Gilead township member of the Morrow county fair board when the group met last week. Jagger succeeds the late L. L. Blayney.

No successor was named for D. P. Chambers of North Bloomfield township, recently resigned.

Total purses for the racing program were reduced $1,200. New purses as set up by the board will total $5,600 compared to a record amount of $6,800 offered last year. None of last years purses were paid out however, as rain forced cancellation of the entire program.

The Ninety-Eighth annual Morrow county fair will be held this year on August 18, 19, 20 and 21.

Oats' Comeback Seen In Crawford Co. View

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, April 5—Not too much discouraged by last year's nearly-disastrous weather which resulted in the poorest crops in Crawford county in 14 years, Crawford county farmers are expected to come up with about 50,000 acres of corn, 35,000 acres of wheat and approximately 24,000 acres each of oats and soybeans.

Biggest comeback will be in oats, county extension agent Russell L. Miller predicts. April and May rains cut the oats crop to less than 20 per cent the normal yield in 1947.

Farmers are also watching the market with misgivings, adding that risk to the annual gamble on the weather, always the major issue.

O.S.U. COEDS TRAIN HERE

Father and Son Receive 25-Year Service Pins

LaVerne Kreuter of Marion, superintendent of the Quaker Oats Co. plant here, was presented a 25-year service pin on March 26 when he was a guest at the monthly employes' council meeting held in Rockford, Ill., plant headquarters. At the same time, Mr. Kreuter's father, Louis Kreuter of Rockford, chief engineer of the Rockford division, was also presented a 25-year service pin.

Both father and son joined the employ of Quaker Oats company in March, 1923. The presentations were made by Warren S. Smith, general manager of the Ken-L Products division of Quaker Oats Co. plants at Rockford and Marion. He commended the two men for their excellent service records with the company.

The elder Kreuter retired on April 1.

Only One of 11 Boy Escapees Missing

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Only one of 11 boys who staged a mass escape from the State Bureau of Juvenile Research was missing today.

Among those recaptured were five who surrendered in nearby Grove City, two who returned voluntarily and one who gave himself up at Hamilton.

The juvenile delinquents broke away late Saturday during the showing of a motion picture in a cottage on the bureau's unfenced grounds.

Dr. Morris Newburger, bureau director, declined to identify the one remaining fugitive. He blamed the break on the weather.

"It's spring," he said. "The weather is nice and the boys just didn't want to be cooped up."

Findlay and Eaton Cheer Championship Cage Teams

By The Associated Press

They're still cheering themselves hoarse in Findlay and Eaton today.

The Trojans of Findlay won the class A state high school basketball championship in Columbus Saturday, while Eaton carried off class B honors.

Both teams returned home yesterday to thunderous ovations. The one at Findlay was impromptu. The official celebration was set for this afternoon.

Preble county went all-out honoring Coach Gene Ellington and his Eaton cagers. A convoy of 2,000 automobiles met the team eight miles from Eaton. Then a six-mile calvacade of horn-tooting cars escorted the champs to the town limits.

A fire truck was waiting there and Ellington and the team got aboard. The fire engine, siren roaring and bell clanging, led a parade up and down nearly every street in Eaton, a town of 3,500.

An hour or so later, the celebraters went to the school athletic field. Mayor Verl Wolfrey told the team:

"You're the greatest team ever to represent Eaton."

After a few more speeches, Coach Ellington stood up and the crowd went wild. Ellington introduced the squad.

"We had real tough battles in the semi-finals against Glenford and the finals yesterday (Saturday) afternoon with Lima St. Rose, "but the boys had the stuff to win," he said. "They're a great bunch of fellows—and a really great team."

Ellington himself won distinction, producing a state champion his first year in the coaching ranks.

Main street in Findlay was jammed with cars. An estimated 4,000 persons poured into the courthouse square to cheer the team.

Coach Carl Bachman gave a short talk, saying how proud he was of the squad and what a fine team it was. He also introduced his players.

The banquet circuit starts tonight for Eaton. The Parent-Teachers Association and Youth Center committee will do the honors. Tomorrow noon, the Rotary club will stage the dinner.

First Hole-in-One Carded at Mar-O-Del

The first hole-in-one of the season on the Mar-O-Del links was carded yesterday by Ed Popoezy of Delaware who made it on the par three No. 2 hole.

He went out with Gary Wilkinson of Delaware and Raymond McClain of Marion ending with a 46 on the par 37 nine-hole course.

Mar-O-Del enjoyed a fairly good play yesterday though the No. 1 hole was still somewhat muddy.

REDS REST AFTER 3-2 WIN OVER PHILLIES

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., April 5 — The Cincinnati Reds rested today for the fifth time since they opened a 39-game exhibition schedule March 9. Two games were cancelled by rain and two other dates were left open.

The Reds yesterday picked their 15th win of the grapefruit league as home runs by Hank Sauer, Virgil Stallcup and Ray Bueller provided a 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

It was the Reds fourth victory over the Phillies against one loss. One game of the series of six was rained out.

Johnny Vander Meer of no-hit fame, hurled three no-hit innings and then Bucky Walters stepped to the mound. Bucky pitched six innings, scattering five hits to prove he was not yet ready for the shelf.

The Reds meet their Syracuse farm club at Plant City Tuesday and then come back for a single game with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics before heading northward.

Ewell (The Whip) Blackwell is slated to work the first three innings against Syracuse.

Sports Chatter On This and That

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Tournament topics, or echoes of Ohio's 1948 high school cage classic.

The new champs: Findlay in class A, by a resounding 51-36 count over Hamilton Catholic; and Eaton in class B, by 45-36 over Lima St. Rose.

Findlay, with 27 straight victories, is the sixth team in 28 years to win the big league crown with a perfect record. (Other unbeaten champs were: Dayton Stivers, 1930; Hamilton, 1937; New Philadelphia, 1940; Bellevue, 1945, and Middletown, 1946).

And in halting Hamilton, the Trojans kept intact the tradition that a parochial team can't win the class A laurels.

Had St. Rose won, the Lima team would have been the fourth Catholic club to triumph in class B. The outnumbered parochial schools set a record, however, in sending representatives into the finals in each class.

EATON, WINNING the class B crown for Coach Gene Ellington in his first year as a cage mentor, started the tournament trail in Indiana. The Preble county tourney, in which Eaton qualified for district play, is played in Richmond, Ind.

Findlay, winner of the "A" laurels in its seventh try, is really the Ohio cage capital. Coach Carl Bachman of the Trojans is president of the Ohio Basketball Coaches association.

Last season's class B finals drew 7,460 customers against this year's figure of 7,720. In Class A, the 1947 mark was 9,257 against 8,125 for Saturday's night's game. The overall total was up this year, however, 38,119 to 34,813, an average of 551 per session.

FRED GEORGE, Lima St. Rose coach, jokingly said before the semi-finals that his team was a cinch because of the 7-11 combination—his seventh year as coach and the 11th Lima team to reach the tourney. The 7-11 didn't pay off in the finals, however, for St. Rose lost despite period scores of 7, 11, 11 and 7.

Rio Grande's Oliver Led Scoring Parade

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 5 — Newt Oliver, of Ohio's little Rio Grande college, led all college basketball scorers during 1948 on the basis of total points.

He tallied 725 points on 217 field goals and 291 free throws in 33 games. His number of charity tosses was credited by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau as being a record for the most fouls made by a player during a season.

Oliver's markmanship put him at the top of the 18 players who tallied 500 or more points during the campaign. However, his points-per-game-average was an even 22.0 compared to 24.2 for Normal Hankins, of Lawrence Tech, who led the major college division, and the 28.1 compiled by Nate Delong, of River Falls (Wis.) Teachers, in leading the small college class.

By a curious coincidence Oliver's 725 points exactly equalled the 725 points made last year by Cliff McNeely of Texas Wesleyan in leading the nation on a total-point basis. This compares to the one-season record of 777 tossed in by Brooms Abramovic of the Oklahoma Aggies compiled against major competition in 1946 and the 558 made by Depaul's George Mikan in 1945.

Hankins ranked second to Oliver in total points with 630. Delong was third with 618 and Hal Haskins, of Hamline, fourth at 605.

Other "500-point" players included Eppa Rixey, Kenyon, 550.

PING PONG CHAMPS

COLUMBUS, O., April 5 — Peggy McLean of Hollis, N. Y., won the 1948 national women's singles table tennis title by defeating Reba Monness of New York. Dick Miles defeated fellow-New Yorker, Marty Riesman to retain his national men's title.

CHRISTOPHER UPS TRIBE'S FLAG HOPES

By The Associated Press

TUCSON, Ariz., April 5—Despite a two-game losing streak and a 10-player injury list, Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians believed today that there may be a pennant flag waving over the wigwam this fall.

Boudreau, unruffled by a 5-2 loss to the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, gave a six-foot, four-inch reason for climbing out on the forecasting limb.

The cause for Lou's optimism was Russ Christopher, towering right-hander purchased from the Philadelphia Athletics and tabbed by Boudreau as "just the man we wanted to get."

With the addition of Christopher, Boudreau found himself puzzling over the problem of using two of the American league's top relief hurlers — Ed Klieman and Christopher. Both are sinker ball specialists, but Lou indicated he would let spring trials settle the problem.

Don Black collapsed yesterday in Pittsburgh's four-run fifth inning. Four straight hits sent Black to the showers and a fourth run tallied as Bob Muncrief was throttling the uprising.

Rookie Gene Bearden, who later pitched, permitted the Pirates' fifth run in the ninth. The loss was Cleveland's seventh in 21 exhibition starts.

Pitchers Edgar Jones, Lyman Linde, Ernie Groth and Les Webber, catcher Ray Boone and infielders Joe Gordon and Rosen were sidelined after the game with a mild mystery malady. They were expected to return to duty tomorrow, however. The illness was believed to be mild dysentery or ptomaine poisoning.

4-Team Southern Ohio Football Loop Formed

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 5 — Formation of the Southern Ohio conference, a football loop, was completed here yesterday by Springfield, Hamilton, Middletown and Portsmouth high schools.

The new circuit, which hopes to play a post-season "state title" contest starting in 1949 with the top club of the Northern Ohio loop, may be strengthened later by the addition of Toledo Libbey.

Representatives of the Northern circuit said they would complete their organization by adopting a constitution at the Cleveland Browns' clinic April 30-May 1 at Cleveland. In that loop are Warren, Alliance, Mansfield, Canton McKinley, Massillon, Toledo Waite and Steubenville.

Elmo Lingrel of Middletown, named president of the Southern league, said another session would be held here during Ohio State university's grid clinic May 6-7.

Cage Coaches Dissatisfied With Present Tourney Setup

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Ohio's basketball coaches aren't satisfied with the present high school tournament setup.

But whether they get anywhere with their recommendation, if Saturday that the state classic be returned to a 32-team affair is problematical.

The Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Association, at its annual session, recommended to the state scholastic board that the present six districts be discarded and that 16 in class A and 16 in class B be set up.

Under the coaches' plan, each district would hold a tournament and send one team to the state meet, doing away with the present regional events.

Today Commissioner H. W. Emswiler declared:

"The state board has discussed at great length the proposition of returning to the old plan of having 16 teams in each class come to the state meet in Columbus but until we have facilities for handling the crowds and teams, I don't see how we can do it."

The coaches also recommended that some method of forcing class B parochial and exempt village teams to qualify for district play be set up, putting them on the same basis as county teams; that schools with football teams be limited to 20 basketball games, and other schools to 22; that tournament squads be boosted from 10 to 12 players, that standard fees for officials be set, that expense allowances for tournaments be increased, and that a standard type bank board be decreed.

Proposals to recommend a decrease in the state association's "take" from basketball, and an assessment on gate receipts of other sports be substituted, was voted down by the coaches, as was a suggestion that boys on championship teams be allowed to receive a sweater, blanket or other award costing more than a dollar.

The coaches' association reelected Carl Bachman, coach of Findlay's class A champions, president and Ralph Webster of Columbus East secretary-treasurer. Vince Arnold, Dayton Fairmont, was named class A vice president, and Paul Johnson, Lowellville, class B vice prexy.

Cage Referees Organize

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Uniform officiating and rule interpretation by basketball referees is the aim of a new statewide group organized here yesterday.

About 100 referees and umpires, on hand for the 26th annual Ohio high school tourney, became charter members of the organization—the Ohio Basketball Officials association. Up to now the state's 2,500 officials have been enrolled only in city or sectional associations.

H. W. Emswiler, high school commissioner, promised he would detail a qualified official—to be picked by the new association—to attend at least six interpretation clinics to assure uniform handling of the rules. The high school association will finance the expert's trips.

Named to the presidency of the new association was Ray Ernst of Cincinnati, with Christy Harrold of Cleveland as vice president, and Ivan Davis, assistant high school commissioner, secretary-treasurer.

They voted of the are these for 556 members mporary assembly to draw up a constitution for a permanent government.

The assembly did this. Its other main job was to keep the government running until a permanent one could be started.

That's what the Italians will do on April 18: they'll vote for a permanent government, a parliamentary form of government.

The Italian parliament will have two houses: a senate (with about 400 members) and a chamber of deputies (574 members).

The people vote only for members of parliament. After its election April 18, parliament will choose a president.

HE'S NOT A KEY. He has practically nothing to do. He's a kind of front man or symbol of government.

The key man in the Italian system is the premier, or prime minister. The voters don't pick him, either.

The way he's picked goes right to the heart of the importance of the Italian elections.

On April 18 a number of parties, perhaps more than a dozen, will have candidates seeking election to parliament.

They range all the way from the Communists and their left-wing Socialist allies to Conservatives and even Fascists.

No one party is expected to win a majority of seats. A number of parties will be represented in parliament.

The president, after his election by parliament, chooses the premier from one of the parties in parliament.

Then the premier picks a cabinet. It's called the government. The top jobs are in the cabinet, like foreign minister, minister of the interior, and so on.

THEN THE PREMIER and his cabinet have to get a vote of confidence—meaning at least a majority vote—from parliament.

When a premier's party has a majority in parliament, getting a vote of confidence is easy. He can make up his cabinet entirely of his own party members.

It's not so easy when his party lacks a majority. Then he fills his cabinet with members of his own party and other parties, hoping in that way to get enough support for majority vote in parliament.

If he doesn't get it he and his cabinet resign. Then the president must pick another premier. He in turn chooses a cabinet and tries to get a vote of confidence.

If the Communists and their allies win a majority of seats—they're not expected to—the president will have to choose a Communist as premier.

THEN, BACKED BY HIS GROUP'S majority in parliament, the Communist premier can pack his cabinet with his own people and run the country.

Suppose, though, the Communists get a big vote but not enough for a majority in parliament. These four things can happen.

1. The president can select a premier from one of the non-Communist parties. If they stick together they'll have a majority and can outvote the Communists.

2. If they don't vote together—if some of them join forces with the Communists because they don't like the premier or his cabinet choices—the Communists can block any vote of confidence.

3. The outnumbered Communists probably would support—at least for a while—a non-Communist premier who chose Communists for a few important jobs in his cabinet. Once in there, the Communists might try to run the whole show.

4. If the Communists, although lacking a majority, get a big vote and the majority non-Communists try to keep them out of the cabinet, it may mean civil war.

Right now Italy has a temporary president and non-Communist premier whose cabinet is non-Communist.

But that's because the Communists and their left-wing Socialist allies have only about 170 of the 556 seats in the temporary assembly.

A.A.U. Swimming Meet "Greatest in History"

By The Associated Press

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 5—America's leading experts, with eyes on the Olympics, agreed today the National AAU men's indoor swimming championships here the past week-end "were the greatest in history."

Heading the praise parade were two gents who should know—stocky Bob Kiphuth of Yale, and little Mike Peppe of Ohio State, our Olympic coaches.

Looking back at the performances, Kiphuth, who will handle the swimmers, and Peppe, who will direct the divers, found what they saw range from "encouraging" to "best in the world."

"Best in the world" were performances turned in by Joe Verdeur of Philadelphia, who, in winning the 220-yard breast-stroke in two minutes, 30.5 seconds, bettered his international mark of 2:35 for the shorter 200-meters distance; and diver Miller Anderson of Ohio State.

They and Bill Smith of Ohio State, middle distance ace, were double winners as Peppe's Buckeyes, in a brilliant comeback, rolled up 46 points to win team honors for the third year in a row. Michigan, Big Nine and National Collegiate champs, was second with 26.

Graziano is turning over his entire purse, expected to be around $15,000 to charity. He's even paying all his training expenses while here.

Santa Anita Racing Enters 1st Full Week

ARCADIA, Calif., April 5—A $2,500 mile and one-sixteenth event for four-year-olds and up features an eight-race program today as Grand Circuit harness racing swings into its first full week of the 35-day Santa Anita Park meeting.

Rain marred the Western Harness Association's opener last Friday and a muddy track forced cancellation of Saturday's program.

Castelton's Farm's War Master, with the veteran driver Sep Palin at the reins, figures as the favorite in a field of eight pacers in this afternoon's feature.

Palin appears twice today, driving Mighty Song in a $1,000 mile race for maidens.

Thaden, 22, who is also a semi-pro baseball pitcher, shot his best series in seven years of bowling—a 222-256-235. He wasn't going to roll in the ABC until agreeing to sub for a friend.

NOVICE FLIES OFF WITH B-25

Wright Field Orders Detention at Minneapolis of Inexperienced Pilot.

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, April 5—An airforce sergeant with an urge to fly but no experience as a pilot went visiting Sunday in a B-25 plane and made an unauthorized solo flight from Ohio to Minnesota.

Today he was being held at the Minneapolis airbase for authorities at Wright field, Dayton, where he took off on his lone unannounced 560 mile flight to Owatonna, 60 miles south of Minneapolis, to visit a brother.

Airbase officers identified the sergeant as Malcolm McCrady, 30-year-old crew chief from Wright field.

While the airforce and alerted police within a 1,200 mile radius of Dayton scanned skies in vain for the B-25, McCrady set it down unaided on the small Owatonna municipal field, notified the Minneapolis base of his safe arrival and then went to the home of his brother, Norbert, to await military police.

Manager Glenn Degner of the Owatonna airfield said McCrady landed the plane downwind in dusk. Normal landings are made into the wind. The plane skidded on the runway shoulder a short distance before coming to a stop in front of the airport office.

"I expected to see a normal peacetime crew of three to five men step out of the plane," said Degner. "Instead, only one fellow stepped out. He asked if this was Owatonna and then I assured him it was, he left the field without identifying himself. I didn't know where the plane came from or where it was going."

Captain George Donnelly, Minneapolis airbase officer, said McCrady reported he had just returned to Dayton from San Antonio, Tex. and got an "urge" to fly the B-25 as he walked down the field. All he had with him was a map of the United States.

McCrady told questioners, the officer said, the flight tower at Wright field had tried to halt the takeoff but that he refused to answer.

He said he had no trouble on the flight but that he was a "little busy" on the landing.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 5—Isolated strong spots persisted in today's stock market although many leaders were depressed by light selling.

Scattered rails pushed up after a quiet opening. While gains running to a point or so were in evidence near midday, a number of pivotals failed to shake off minus signs.

Rock Island railroad climbed to a high for the year on talk of resumed dividends after a lapse since 1931. Ahead at intervals were Southern Railway, Great Northern railway, Mission Corp., Gulf Oil, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, United Aircraft, Paramount Pictures and Philip Morris.

Occasional stumblers were Republic Steel, General Motors, Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, Du Pont, Eastern Kodak, Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Standard Oil (NJ).

Empty Coal Cars In Bucyrus Yards

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, April 5—More than 400 empty coal cars are crowding the New York Central railroad yards here, along with between 400 and 500 more stored on the road and 1,000 empties at Stanley, awaiting settlement of the coal miners' strike.

A railroad spokesman said today that 30 more brakeman and 10 firemen will be furloughed April 6, bringing the total to 60 laid off since miners laid down their picks three weeks ago. Another 10 days of idleness by the miners will bring train movements through here to almost a standstill, the spokesman said.

Only three regular freight runs and two extra runs are still moving, railroad officials said.

OHIO-INDIANA LOOP DIRECTORS MEET

Rookie Rule Is Changed To Strengthen Weak Teams

A meeting of the directors from the eight teams of the Ohio-Indiana baseball league which includes Marion, Springfield, Richmond, Muncie, Lima, Newark, Zanesville and the new Portsmouth team was held in the Roberts Hotel in Muncie over the weekend with the purpose of formulating plans for the coming season.

John Hartsmeyer, president of the Muncie club, was host to officials from each club with Judge W. Dexter Hazen, president of the Marion Cubs, and Forest Coss, secretary and Lewis (Zeke) Bekeza, manager, representing the local team.

Chief point at issue was the "Rookie Rule" which governs the number of veterans, limited servicemen, and rookies permitted each team. Formerly the rule allowed two veterans, seven limited service men and eight rookies. Now it is permissible to have a maximum of three veterans, although a team may have ten rookies in lieu of the veterans or any number fewer than three veterans. The principal reason for the change is to strengthen some of the weaker teams with the addition of veterans.

The rule change was eventually voted unanimously. Judge Hazen was the only "Molotov" in the group—casting a veto on the first ballot. He argued that a veteran player is not going to help a team to any great extent, for a truly good ball player wouldn't be playing in D ball anyway. "We would rather take a chance on a rookie," he said.

Other business included the ironing out of routine plans for the year, the housing of players while on the road, price of admission tickets and the hiring of umpires. Admission charges for the Cubs' games remained the same although most of the other clubs decided to up the cost of all duckats. Tickets to the local games will cost 65 cents for a grandstand seat, 45 cents for a bleacher seat, and $50 a year for a box seat. A grandstand season ticket runs $35 a year and $22.50 in the bleachers. Opening game umpires on April 27 will be Dutch Henline who has been here for two years, Frank Shaback, returning after two years' absence, and Harry Hickel, new to this vicinity

Ship Charles Schwab First Through Soo

By The Associated Press

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., April 5—The freighter Charles M. Schwab, ignoring a victor's prize, pushed across Lake Superior today as the first 1948 ship through the locks.

Clearing the locks at daybreak Sunday, she headed on for a 12,000-ton cargo of iron ore at Superior, Wis., without waiting for the plaudits always reserved for the first vessel.

The Interlake Steamship Co. ship, sailing from Toledo led a race of 20-odd craft in the opening of the new navigation season on the great lakes.

A ship's clock was the prize. A civic group will present it to Capt. Frank Van Dusen on his vessel's return voyage.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

What To Do For a Cold.

In any poll, whether among the medical profession or the laity, the common cold would easily win first place the No. 1 nuisance-maker among diseases.

It affects more people more often than any other ailment. It is responsible for much more time lost from work as well as for interference with efficiency. Not dangerous itself, it may, nevertheless, be the forerunner of more serious troubles, such as pneumonia, sinus infection, bronchitis, and ear infections.

The worst of it is that there is not much we can do about colds. We have no sovereign remedy either to prevent or to treat them. Cold vaccines have been tried as a means of preventing colds and, like so many other likely prospects, have, as a rule, finally proved themselves of little value. The same thing is true of the massive doses of vitamins, so popular for this purpose a few years ago.

It would appear that today's best bet in the treatment of a cold is rest in bed and the giving of plenty of fluids, together with certain drugs to relieve discomfort.

Recently, however, a promising new substance, known as tyrothricin, which is valuable in preventing the growth of bacteria on the skin and mucous membranes, has been tried in the treatment of colds. It is still too soon to be sure of its effectiveness, but first results look hopeful.

To get the proper solution, tyrothricin was mixed with one of the nose drop solutions which have the effect of shrinking the lining membrane of the nose.

It is important to employ the proper strength of tyrothricin. If the solution is too weak, its antiseptic action is not great enough. If it is too strong, it causes stinging and watering of the eyes and nose. The solution was put into the nose every hour for the first few days, and every four or five hours thereafter. The solution was kept tightly covered and in the refrigerator when not in use.

Three hundred and fifty persons, in whom head colds were developing, were treated with nose drops. Two hundred and fifty of them used the nose drops containing the tyrothricin. One hundred were given nose drops without the tyrothricin. It was found that the tyrothricin solution shortened the duration of the colds as well as prevented complications. The same beneficial effects were not obtained in patients who did not get the tyrothricin.

This substance does not have any direct effect on the virus which causes colds, but it does seem to have value in getting rid of secondary infections which complicate colds. It is believed that this substance is the most successful agent which has been used up to the present for colds. It would seem that further study of this method of treatment is advisable.

Questions and Answers

A. R. R.: What are the relative merits of castor oil and epsom salts as laxatives?

Answer: Both are effective laxatives, but laxatives should be taken only under the direction of a physician, for continued use may lead to irritation of the bowel, or colitis.

Constipation is best overcome by diet, the drinking of plenty of fluids, and the formation of the right bowel habits.

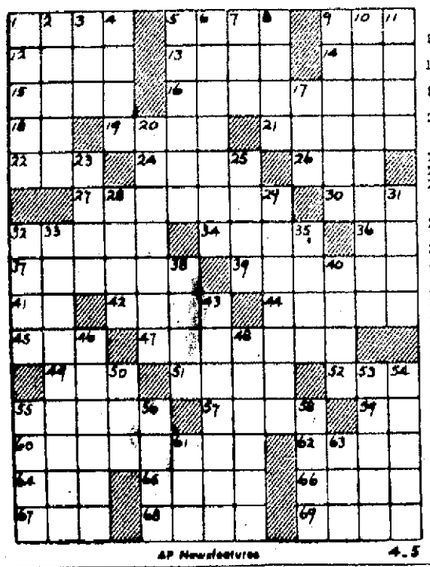
Solution of Saturday's Puzzle



AP Newsfeatures 4-5

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The reason for the sealing off of Berlin is obvious . . . Apparently they hoped to bag the freedom train.

And as an attraction it might outpull the slave wagon.

But I hear one candidate now wants the presidential election moved up to June . . . He's not sure his story that the Reds mean no offense will stretch to November.

The Germans should be on our side in this thing. Last week we shipped them 15 million pounds of shelled peanuts which couldn't be unloaded on the school lunch program.

That's for surplus walnuts.

Apparently our policy in Germany has shifted again. Instead of Democrats we're trying to make Republicans out of them . . How else can you explain 15 million pounds of peanuts, the favorite fruit of elephants?

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

By AP Newsfeatures

BETTE DAVIS, born April 5, 1908 in Lowell, Mass., chalked up fame in motion pictures with roles as spitfires and hussies which most actresses would have been afraid to touch. She has won two Academy Awards. She went to Hollywood after several years on stage and made an inauspicious beginning. But several years of hard work established her. The War Department awarded her a scroll for meritorius service for her wartime work in the Hollywood canteen.
